

Barnstorming Adventures

In helmet and headset, one or two passengers sit in the front cockpit of a real 1920's airplane. Your pilot flies from the back cockpit. It's aviation like it used to be. Fly low and slow over beaches and the bays or make up your own route, as long as it fits within the amount of your time-we'll do it. Each flight can be more thrilling than a roller coaster, or as gentle as you like! One of our biplanes, NC3242, was originally built in May of 1927. That's the same month that Charles Lindbergh flew across the Atlantic. It was used to carry airmail. Another plane, NC674H, was built in November of 1929. It was owned by a detective agency in Chicago that used it to transport a gangster-sniffing bloodhound.
